Create Your Own Bait Combinations

Fishing combinations are the arrangement, permutations, coda, patterns, orders and sequences of flavorings and baits as used on your trace or rig. It is important to notice that hook baits, feeds and shakes (powders) must be included in each combination.

The Main Types of Flavorings:

- Essence: This is an undiluted basic flavor that carries no base or coloan.
- Dip / Muli: This is a combination of flavors that carries a base and coloan.
- Ballbli: This is similar to dip, but it is mixed with a base to enhance the flavor and protein value.
- Spray: This is a dip / multi / dip / multi with a thinner base application to allow spray mist.

Remember to use flavors in your feed. In rare conditions, flavors will be applied to your hook baits. The sole purpose of flavorings is to attract the fish. The fish do not actually consume it because it will have been diluted, leaving only a scent trail.

Important Considerations

1. In warm conditions or when the water is oxygenated by wind, you will use a smaller amount of liquids. Feed are more active in those conditions and do not need much encouragement to take the baits. Opposite is true when the water is still and cold.
2. Use more of the flavorings in cold weather to attract the fish as they are more docile.

Combosins of Basic Categories:

- 1. Carriers - Flavours, high in protein, complementing the feed bait.
- 2. Callers - Flavours travel far, attracting fish to the bait.
- 3. Feeders - These are Flavours which trigger fish to feed.

Hookbaits

The hookbait is the main attraction, the main element the fish will focus on.

- All our baits are imitations of natural food sources of fish. The hook bait should be presented in the most enticing way that complements feeding patterns and fishing conditions.
- Instead of habitually using hook baits, vary the position, size, shape, and combination, or alternate with other hook baits to achieve maximum results.
- The buoyancy of the hook bait in relation to the trace or rig will contribute towards your results.
- Pay special attention to the bait presentation, as it is the business end of all fishing trips.

Twin Series Hook Baits include

- Hookbaits
- Soft Floats, Ozeers, Com Particles, Boilies, Taffe Doughs, Semolina Doughs and Backings

Groundbaits / Feeds

Feed is the biggest feature on the trace or rig, and the most important element of a bait combination. The feed carries the most favourable sequence and has an influence on the presentation of the hook bait. Presentation is critical to your fishing success.

Twin Series Feeds include

- Ground Feeds
- Mixed Feeds
- Bits Boms

Shakes (Powders)

Shakes imitate feeding fish by creating the illusion that the sediment is disturbed by feeding fish. This intrinsically attract other fish to the shake cloud.

While temperatures, air pressure and oxygen forces force fish to feed at different depths, the application of powder enables you to create a vertical and horizontal feeding zone, which will lure fish towards your bait.

Protein value is the most important characteristic of shakes.
